No Records Kept Of Parley On 4-Power Treaty, Says Harding

Not Good Policy To Bare Details

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 20.—President Harding, replying today to the senate on the Hitchcock resolution asking for information relative to the negotiation of the four-power Pacific treaty, stated it was impossible to furnish the required information, because most of the negotiations were conducted without the maintaining of a record.

The president said it would not be compatible with public interests to disclose the confidential negotiations of the treaty negotiators, but he declared that "there were no concealed undertakings and no secret exchanges of notes."

Almost coincident with the arrival of the president's letter, the senate foreign relations committee, by a vote of ten to one, ordered favorably reported the treaty between United States and Japan regarding the Island of Yap.

The action followed a two hour debate in the committee, and was taken after several Republican and Democratic senators had indicated they would favor reporting the treaty to the senate, but reserved the right to further discuss it on the floor. The single negative vote was cast by Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada.

The president's reply to the Hitchcock resolution, which was adopted by the senate last week, follows:

"Responsive to senate resolution No. 237, asking for records, minutes, arguments, debates, conversations, etc., relating to the so-called four-power treaty, I have to advise that it is impossible to comply with the senate's request. Many of the things asked for in the resolution, it is literally impossible to furnish, because there were many conversations and discussions quite outside the conference, yet vital to its success. Naturally, these are without record.

"I do not believe it to be compatible with public interests or consistent with the amenities of international negotiations to attempt to reveal informal and confidential conversations or discussions of which no record was kept or to submit tentative suggestions or informal proposals, without which the arrival at desirable international understandings would be rendered unlikely if not impossible.

"While I am unable to transmit the information required, I do, however, take this opportunity to say most emphatically that there were no concealed understandings, and no secret exchanges of notes, and there are no commitments whatever except as appear in the four-power treaty itself and the supplementary agreement which are now in the hands of the senate."

Without discussion the president's letter was referred to the foreign relations committee, when it was read in the senate, the motion being made by Senator Hitchcock.

WHEN MARY WEDS

PRINCESS MARY AND WESTON PARK, WHERE SHE WILL SPEND THE FIRST DAYS OF HER HONEYMOON.

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON—The ultimate in pageantry, music and ritual will be achieved February 28 when Princess Mary will break all records of the British royal house by marrying a commoner. Viscount Lascelles, whose title is only one by courtesy. He is the heir presumptive to Lord Harewood, his father.

The only daughter of the king and queen of England will be married in historic Westminster Abbey, this being the first time a daughter of the royal house has been wedded there for six centuries.

On the wedding morning the route from Buckingham Palace down the Mall, through the great Admiralty Arch along Whitehall, where most of the governmental buildings are, past Parliament House and to the Abbey, will be lined with rows of the gorgeous scarlet-coated, bear-skin-hatted British Guards.

Four Processions

People fortunate enough to get tickets to the abbey will see not one but four processions.

The first will be that of the royal family and representatives of foreign courts. Queen Alexandra, the septuagenarian grandmother of the bride, will be the central figure.

The second procession will be that of the Queen of England, attended by the ladies of her household, and walking with her son, the Duke of

THE STORY BACK OF ROTARY, BY ITS FOUNDER

BY ROY GIBBONS

CHICAGO, Feb. 20—"Loneliness is a terrible thing. It shocks the finer sensibilities of man, lowers the ebb of his morale, and by reason of its paralyzing influence, tends to make of him an unsociable animal, neither understanding others nor understanding himself."

In that statement Paul P. Harris, an attorney here, as founder of a tiny nucleous group of "three kindred lights" 17 years ago, which today has developed into the International Association of Rotary Clubs, sums up his reasons for establishing the order.

PAUL P. HARRIS

Harris, long and lean of body, is now, as always, a battler against loneliness and unfriendliness.

One cold winter's morning 20 years ago he rode into Chicago finishing the last leg of a round-the-world journey.

In his globe-trotting through Europe Harris noticed that the lone traveler always occupied a removed place in the hotel lobby, the Pullman car, and that his attitude was one of longing for a good pal to cheer him up.

So great was the impression made upon him, that Harris, in Chicago, decided to voice a tangible protest against the loneliness of big cities.

His idea was to form a group of individuals and share with them the homely joys of the small town.

With that purpose in view he gathered around him three good friends, who of an evening would join together usually in each other's office or some frugal restaurant, there to abandon business matters entirely and concern themselves in good-hearted merrymaking.

Because the meetings were held at different places, the name Rotary was given the crowd.

The plan proved popular. New members were taken in, each man representing a distinct craft or profession, a rule which is adhered to today.

Seventeen years have passed. That Harris' plan has succeeded is attested by existence of 1045 clubs scattered in 22 countries with a membership approximating 100,000.

Rotary Week starts February 19, with giant celebrations in every club headquarters over the world to commemorate the anniversary birthday.

Harris is 53, married but has no children. Although he founded the organization his only connection with the international body is that of president emeritus.

"It seems but yesterday that I started," he says.

And of the future:

"Man must forget himself if he wants happiness. Life holds only one thing that counts and that is the appreciation of contact with each other.

"Friendships are invaluable. That is what Rotary strives for with unselfishness as the underlying working basis.

"We are nearing the great dawn of the brotherhood of man. Yes it is coming."

Bonus Sent Back To Tax Committee

New Angle To Mystery

LOS ANGELES, CAL., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—A new angle of investigation into the murder of William Desmond Taylor, film director, was promised for today by the police. They did not make public the nature of the new turn the inquiry might have taken, but reiterated their determination to continue their search for the murderer as long as there is a remote clue upon which to work.

"I imagine the case will quiet down soon as far as the public is concerned," said David L. Adams, captain of detectives, "but the police department will never rest. The Taylor murderer must be found."

Letters On The Issue Pour Into White House

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Majority members of the house ways and means committee referred back today to the special tax sub-committee the whole problem of how the soldiers' bonus is to be financed. It was announced the sub-committee would meet tomorrow and would go into the question of a sales tax among other things.

Opponents of the sales tax began to lay their plans today for a fight against this proposition. Representative Dickinson, Republican, Iowa, a leader of the agricultural bloc, called a meeting of Republican opponents for late today.

It was said that aside from referring the finance question to the sub-committee, the majority members

16-Year-Old Granddaughter Of J. D. Rockefeller To Marry 40-Year-Old Swiss Horseman

CHICAGO, February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Mathilde McCormick, 16 years old, today had permission of her father, Harold F. McCormick, to marry Max Oser, a horseman of Zurich, Switzerland. Mr. McCormick announced the engagement last night in a thirty-three word statement. He said it was "hastened a few weeks by the fact of the recent newspaper publicity."

Miss Mathilde McCormick spent today in bed, resting from the excitement attendant to obtaining her family's consent to marry Max Oser of Berne, Switzerland, proprietor of a riding academy at Zurich.

From the old Cyrus Hall McCormick mansion, where Miss McCormick is living with her father, who moved there following his recent divorce from Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, further details of the international romance were gleaned today.

First the family fixed Mr. Oser's age at forty-three years, contradicting statements of Emil Burgy, a Chicago interior decorator, who claims to be a cousin of Mr. Oser. Burgy told newspaper men that Oser was 57 years old, although previous dispatches from abroad had placed his age at 48.

Howard A. Colby, a friend of Mr. McCormick, who gave the facts to the Associated Press, said:

"Mr. McCormick knows Mr. Oser personally. He is only forty years old and full of mustard and pepper. This stuff about his being an old man is all bosh. He is really a young man, and Miss Mathilde is a very mature young lady. It isn't like marrying the average sixteen-year-old girl. Everybody is much pleased with the engagement."

Miss McCormick, who was born in 1905, will be 17 years old on April 8, next.

Friends of the McCormicks said last night Mr. McCormick's announcement must have followed consent of Mr. Rockefeller. None had definite information, but all stated that even so determined a girl as Miss Mathilde has been said to be, would not dare go through with such an engagement unless Mr. Rockefeller sanctioned it.

Friends of the McCormicks today said that the consent given to the engagement by the family was in line with the training of the children. They always were given free rein in self-expression, so long as their own whims and desires did not

$40,000 In Liquor Stolen

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 20.—Between 350 and 400 cases of whisky were stolen early today from the Oscar Pepper distillery on Woodford county by twenty masked bandits, who held up and tied to posts four guards.

The robbers are said to have headed for Cincinnati. The value was estimated at $40,000. First reports were that the Old Pepper distillery was robbed, but officials today stated it was the Oscar Pepper plant.

The guards, surprised by the robbers, were lined up in the office with faces to the wall, while the warehouses were being looted. After the robbery the guards were bound to posts in the distillery yard, it was reported.

Prohibition officers, led by Sam Collins, state director left here immediately after being notified of the robbery. The whisky was carried away on three trucks.

Boycott On Beer Starts

LONDON, Feb. 20 (By the A. P.)—A considerable proportion of dock workers and car drivers in the London area today obeyed the instructions of the National Federation of Transport Workers for a boycott on beer, which is an answer to the alleged excessive price being charged for this form of beverage and the recent cuts of workers' wages by the brewers. The federation, it is stated purposes making the boycott nationwide, involving a million dock and road transport workers.

Award For Train Dispatchers

CHICAGO, February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The United States railroad labor board in a decision today authorized time and a half for overtime work by train dispatchers after the ninth hour. Eight hours remains the standard for a day, the decision said, adding that heretofore the train dispatchers had not received over time.

Dispatchers who have the authority of superintendent or assistant superintendent were not included in the decision, the board holding them to be officials. The decision affects about 5,000 men.

The question of vacations was remanded to further conference of the men with road officials.

Claim Legislators Miller And Carpenter Draw Money Illegally

COLUMBUS, O., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Request that efforts be made to recover for the state sums of money said to have been paid illegally to Senator Miller, of Dresden, and Representative Carpenter, of Steubenville, for attending sessions of the state emergency board, today was in the hands of Attorney General Price.

The request, accompanied by charges that Miller and Carpenter, chairmen of the senate and house finance committee, respectively, had been paid $10 per day for several days a week ever since the legislature adjourned last May, were lodged with the attorney general yesterday by R. W. Walton and W. S. Pealer, Columbus attorneys.

Miller received $950 and Carpenter $760 for attending the board meetings, the attorneys charge, declaring that payment of these amounts is illegal because the King law, passed at the last legislative session and which provides for this is not yet operative.

Charges also are made that while the emergency board formerly met one or two days a month, Miller has been paid for 95 days and Carpenter for 76 days for attending sessions.

PARIS, February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The French delegation to the Washington armament conference reached Paris today on its return from the United States, its members giving the impression that they were dissatisfied with the results of their mission, apparently feeling that their visit to Washington had caused regrettable misunderstandings concerning France in some circles in America.

Bucyrus Has "Blue Law" Sunday

BUCYRUS, O., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—This city quietly observed its first "blue law" Sunday yesterday, by reading the Sunday papers.

Pastor To Go On A Strike

BLACKPOOL, ENGLAND, February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The Rev. Adam Hamilton, pastor of a Congregational church here, has announced his intention of going on strike for two weeks. He said the empty pews in his church showed that there was something wrong either with his sermons or the church.

Outbreak In Textile Strike

PAWTUCKET, R. I., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The first disturbance in a week in connection with the textile strike occurred near the plant of the Jenckes Spinning Company here today. After four young women operatives had been intercepted by strike sympathizers, police officers drew clubs and drove back a crowd that was setting in toward the mill gates.

When the crowd pressed in again, the officers were commanded by Lieutenant of Police Ballou to discharge the riot guns with which they were armed. The crowd fell back and did not threaten again.

Two men were arrested. Several of those who were in the front ranks sustained bruised heads from the policemen's clubs.

BUSINESS NEARING POINT OF UPWARD SWING OF ECONOMIC PENDULUM

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Business throughout the country, progressing through well defined circles, is nearing the point of the upward swing of the economic pendulum, according to the annual report of the federal reserve board, transmitted today to congress.

"There are those," the report said, "who believe that the beginning of the revival is not far distant. When it does definitely set in, it will be followed in due course by a new era of prosperity."

Business, in one of its long swings from prosperity, the report said, has followed its usual rotation, which it describes as business activity and increase in production; excessive expansion and speculation, followed hitherto by panic and forced liquidation, a long period of slow liquidation, business depression and stagnation, and then revival.

"In the light of recent experience," the report warned, "we should remember when we again enter into a period of full prosperity, that a reaction will follow sooner or later, and if the flow of the incoming tide can be controlled so that the crest may not be reached too rapidly nor rise too high, the subsequent reaction will be less severe and the next period of industrial and commercial activity and general prosperity will be marked by the sane methods, greater achievement along constructive lines and by a longer duration than any which we have had before."

The board confined its report to an account of the operations of the organization for the year 1921, without offering any suggestions for legislation affecting the board or the federal reserve system.

"For some months past," the report said, "there has been a marked easing off of interest. Notwithstanding some unfavorable features in the revenue laws, the investment market is now absorbing securities at reasonable rates, which could not have been considered a few months ago. Market quotations of liberty bonds have steadily advanced until they are now approaching par. Good railroad and industrial bonds also have appreciated, and there have been some noticeable advances in standard stocks. High commodity prices and great business activity usually mean lower prices for bonds and other securities yielding a fixed income, while reduced commodity prices and lower money rates bring higher market prices for bonds."

Retail Clothiers Say They Have Cut Prices As Far As Possible; Up To Manufacturers

COLUMBUS, O., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Retail clothiers have done more towards deflating prices of wearing apparel than clothing manufacturers, according to opinion expressed here today by officers of the Ohio Retail Clothiers' and Furnishers' Association attending the annual convention of the organization.

The retailers declare that they have reduced prices of their goods as far as is possible until there is a further drop in manufacturers' prices. Rent, clerk hire and other expenses are little lower than during the past two years, the dealers assert.

Sessions of the Clothiers' and Furnishers' Association, which open today, continue through Wednesday, and those of the Men's Apparel Club, an auxiliary organization, close on Thursday.

Irvin S. Cobb Has The Flu

Took Whole Town To Stop Fight

LYNNBROOK, N. Y., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—It took the fire department, the police force and all the town officers and practically every resident of this hitherto peaceful Long Island village to quell a battle between freshmen and sophomores of Columbia University early today. After fire hose pointed at the combatants had stopped the fight, ten students found themselves in the town lock-up, one was nursing wounds inflicted by an automobile before which he was thrown in the scrimmage. A score were bathing discolored eyes or applying liniment to numerous bruises and forty freshmen found themselves tied hands and feet captives of the sophomores.

Fifty sophomores had rushed an inn where 150 freshmen were having a dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Alspaugh, who are in Huntington, were notified of the robbery last night.

Silverware Not The Only Loot

In addition to taking the 300 boxes of silverware the thieves stole all that Mrs. Alspaugh had stored away in the drawers of her buffet. It is thought that this silverware amounted to $800. The thieves also broke into a closet on the second floor of the home and stole some champagne and wine Mr. Alspaugh had placed there several years ago.

Entrance to the home was effected through the southwest window in the rear, which had been jimmied by the leaf of an automobile spring. The robbers did not take the time to hide the spring and it was found Sunday afternoon Chief Distel near the window through which the thieves had climbed.

James Alspaugh, a son of D. A. Alspaugh, visited his father's home Saturday afternoon, and it only required a glance at the downstairs rooms to show him that a robbery had been perpetrated. He found the window leading through the pantry wide open and the kitchen door had not been closed. He made a careful survey of the house and learned that 300 boxes of silverware had been stolen, it having been stored in two rooms on the first floor. It was taken there when Mr. Alspaugh retired from business sometime ago.

Police Not Notified Until Sunday

Mr. Alspaugh did not report the robbery to Chief Distel until Sunday afternoon. This enabled the robbers to make their second visit Saturday night when they stole the silverware from the buffet drawers and left them scattered over the dining room floor. The thieves then ransacked the house completely and were rewarded in finding the Rhine wine and Cook's Imperial in an upstairs closet.

Chief Distel, Capt. Startzman and Plain Clothes Officer Haley inspected the Alspaugh home shortly after the robbery was reported. They are of the opinion that the thieves visited the home last Wednesday or Thursday night. They then returned Saturday night. This is assured as certainty as silverware James Alspaugh saw in the home of his parents Saturday afternoon was missing Sunday afternoon.

Chief Distel stated Monday that he found four tracks in the Alspaugh yard and the yard next door, where the thieves had walked to their machine, which evidently had been parked on Sinton street. The chief examined the tracks closely and they measured 11 1-2 inches. He is of the opinion that local men, who were implicated in another robbery in the city sometime ago, are the ones who visited the Alspaugh home and they are being shadowed by the police. The chief learned last night that several young men in the city had been drinking Rhine wine the past few days and this may furnish a clue to the robbers, he believes.

Hold Student For Plot

SAN FRANCISCO, February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—A Tokio dispatch to the Japan-American, a Japanese language newspaper here, said a Tokio school boy had been arrested in connection with an alleged plan to assassinate Prince Tokugawa, one of the Japanese delegates to the Washington limitation of armament conference.

The boy was arrested, the dispatch said, at the Tokio railway station last Saturday when Prince Tokugawa arrived home.

"If I Could Only Belch Up That Gas I Know I Would Feel Better"

How often have you felt that way? How often have you wished for something to give you genuine and lasting relief for Gas?

Don't buy any ordinary dyspepsia tablet for temporary results. Go to a first-class drug store, ask for a bottle of genuine Baalmann's Gas-Tablets; take three tablets an hour before meals and again three hours before eating— then watch. Now comes a surprise. No more gas, no more smothered feeling, no difficult breathing and no bloat.

Remember Baalmann's Gas-Tablets are not only for the relief, but also for the prevention of Gas. Most people with Gas suffer from nervous Dyspepsia, not common indigestion.

Baalmann's Gas-Tablets are sold in the famous yellow package for one dollar.

House Is Wrecked By Bomb

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. Feb. 20—A frame house in the Italian quarter in Woodbridge avenue, Highland Park, was blown to pieces today and two others, nearby, were badly wrecked by an explosion which police believe was caused by a bomb. No one was injured, first reports said.

Ralph Woodruff, 33, the only occupant of the wrecked house, was arrested, pending an investigation.

VETERAN PIONEER DIES

LOS ANGELES, CAL., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Mrs. Eliza P. Donner Houghton, one of the last survivors of the Donner party, many of whose members starved to death while on the way across the plains to California 75 years ago, died at her home here yesterday, aged 78 years. Mrs. Houghton was the daughter of Captain George Donner.

Sinn Fein Convention To Convene

DUBLIN, February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Delegates to the Ard Fheim, or national Sinn Fein convention, which meets tomorrow, were already gathering in large numbers today. About 3,000 representatives from all parts of the country are entitled to attend.

The ostensible purpose of the convention is to decide the future constitution of the Sinn Fein movement, but by the discussions and final vote will be revealed the comparative strength of the supporters of Eamon DeValera and Arthur Griffith among the Sinn Fein clubs throughout Ireland.

It is widely believed that the convention will result in a complete cleavage of the organization and the formation of two bodies, pledged respectively to the Anglo-Irish treaty, and to a republic.

If a split occurs, the question of the disposition of the party funds will become acute. Some believe they will be amicably divided proportionately to the respective strengths of the factions, while others forecast a hot controversy and a difficult settlement.

Forecasts as to the division, if one occurs, vary greatly, but most observers expect a small majority for the free state advocates.

SOCIETY

In spite of the inclement weather fifty young people attended the Valentine party of the First Baptist Juniors, given by Mrs. H. Stuart Tillis at her home, 507 Waller street, Saturday afternoon. The rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion in red hearts and Valentine novelties and after the regular business meeting the afternoon was spent in playing ring games and other interesting stunts. The center of attraction during the afternoon was a large white valentine box, made and decorated by Master Robert Newman. Each guest received a pretty valentine and later were served with delicious refreshments by Mrs. Tillis and Mrs. Charles Newman. Those assisting were the four teachers of the juniors, Mrs. H. Stuart Tillis, Miss Hazel Rickey, Miss Dorothy Dobbins and Miss Utella Wood and the following children -Imogene Wood, Ruth Richardson, Thelma Layton, Mildred May, Delia Mae Hardin, Genevieve Cogen, Florence Boren, Bertha Miller, Dorothy Rickey, Nell Ater, Dorothy Davis, Mary Harris, Lorraine Harris, Genevieve Barton, Ruth Carson, Roberta Carson, May Pulsing, Mabel Harly, Jean Ater, Katherine Chambers, Mildred Bole, Lonella Burton, Mildred Hartg, Elizabeth Sulger, Marjorie Tillis, Nola Robinson, Masters Philip Mitchell, Gordon Tillis, Robert Newman, Frank Pulsing, Rudolph Wood, Warren Gillen, Harold Cunningham, Jack Cunningham, Roger Boren, Chester Boren, Marvin Moritz, Sammy Hitchcock, Forest Litteral, Raymond Ward, Orville Litteral, Randall Schuler and Harry May.

The following from the Tampa, Florida, Tribune will be read with interest as Mr. and Mrs. G. Wash Williams are well known residents of this city, who are spending the winter in Florida:

Ruskin, Feb. 18—Early in the afternoon on Thursday, a goodly number of ladies met at the home of Dr. G. Wash. and Mrs. Williams, to witness a demonstration given by Mrs. Williams in prize cake-making. Mrs. Williams very modestly explained she was giving this demonstration by request and her purpose was not to tell theladies of Ruskin how to make cake, being aware they already knew, but rather to show how she made cakes. After this interesting demonstration was over, and some of the delicious cake sampled, and pronounced "perfect," the ladies, according to former invitation, went to "Cozey Cove," the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Buckland, the occasion being in honor of Mrs. McKinley, who recently became a bride, and also a farewell to Miss Mabel Bucks and Miss Clara Reaber. The house was decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers, the ruddy glow of the "log" in the fireplace adding to the artistic effect. The afternoon was spent informally, a number of the ladies doing fancy work while discussing current events. Mrs. Mina Buckland gave several choice selections on the Victrola. The guests were invited to the dining room, where an attractive table was laid and delicious luncheon served. After luncheon Mrs. Dorothy Gosh, of New York, sang a few popular songs and gave the Scotch and several other fancy dances.

On Saturday Miss Mabel Bucks and Miss Clara Reaber left for their home in Reading, Pa., after spending a few months at the Bucks' winter cottage here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beckman of 1220 Tenth street had as guests Sunday Mr. and rMs. Luther O'Dell and daughter, Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smith and daughters, Ruth and Aline, Mrs. Albert Beckman and son Lennis. Several vocal and instrumental numbers added to the pleasures of the day. Miss Eva Beckman presided at the piano and Miss Helen Tipton rendered several delightful vocal selections. Before departing for their homes the guests were served with ice cream and cake.

Mrs. Margaret White, who is confined to her home on Lawson street with an attack of gastric grip, is slightly improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mason of 1043 Tenth street entertained Mr. and Mrs. Joe Evans and daughters, Kathryn and Virginia Ruth, of City View at supper last evening. After supper the time was spent informally in social chat and music. Others who came in to spend the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Candill, Mr. and Mrs. Russell May, Mrs. John Davis, Mrs. Percy Sleet, Helen Taylor and Elden Stroud.

Charles Racy and daughter, Mary Lenora, of Eleventh street, were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Ogle Burnham of Third and Bond streets.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Burton entertained with a dinner last evening at their home on Third street. Covers were laid for Mrs. A. E. Phillips of Saskatchewan, Canada, Mrs. Hettie Munyon of New Boston, Mr. R. B. Prestfood, Mr. and Mrs. Burton and family.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called, "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular, because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it, and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.—advertisement.

CHANGE OF LIFE WOMAN'S TRIAL

Proof That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is of Great Help at This Period

Metropolis, Illinois. — "I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it is all it claims to be and has benefited me wonderfully. I had been sick for eight months with a trouble which confined me to my bed and was only able to be up part of the time, when I was advised by a friend, Mrs. Smith, to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. I was so much benefited by the use of these medicines that I was able to be up and about in two weeks. I was at the Change of Life when I began taking the medicines and I passed over that time without any trouble. Now I am hale and hearty, do all my housework, washing, ironing, scrubbing, and cooking, all there is to do about a house, and can walk two or three miles without getting too tired. I know of several of my neighbors who have been helped by your medicines." —Mrs. EMMA CULVER, 705 E. 7th St., Metropolis, Illinois.

You may depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Couple Joined In Death

GENEVA, February 20.— By the Associated Press)—A couple named Stadler, separated for thirty years, have been joined in death at Kussnacht, near Lucerne. For reasons they never told, the husband and wife parted a month after marriage, living in opposite ends of the village, bowing to each other on the street, but never speaking.

Recently the wife died. The husband on hearing the news wrote a note asking to be buried near her, and an hour later he was found dead. Doctors found no indications of suicide, and friends said he died of a broken heart.

Rob County Prosecutor's Home

CLEVELAND, O., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—City police and County Detective James Doran today are searching for two burglars who late last night robbed the home of County Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton of $1,800 worth of jewels belonging to Mrs. Stanton, and escaped just as the family returned home from a visit with relatives

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat, also take glass of Salts before eating breakfast

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Advertisement.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I noticed a letter in your column a few nights ago, where a girl speaking of the boys in this town called us all "pikers," which are what most girls term the rage. To me her slangy words are very unbecoming a nice girl, and she should take care that she doesn't give the wrong impression by her conduct while in the company of people of any type. She should learn that slang speech, shady action and misconduct causes lots of people to think one's character is like one's ways and actions.

ONE WHO KNOWS

I agree with you, but one can't always express their disgust in elegant language. The boys mentioned made her so mad that they were lucky to get off with being called "pikers."

Dear Dolly—To settle an argument I want to ask you if any one is allowed to write a letter defaming one's character and slurring them in every way without cause? Isn't there a law for using the mail for such purposes?

A DAILY READER

It is a violation of the postal laws to send obscene letters through the mails. The next one you get turn it over to the postmaster. If you know who is writing the letters, you can give his or her name with the letter.

Dear Miss Wise—Will you please print in your information column the names of the men who assassinated President Lincoln, President Garfield and President McKinley. Also the man who shot President Roosevelt, giving the nationality and religious creed of each and giving the occasion and place, with the date that each crime was committed.

A TIMES READER

President Lincoln was shot in Ford's theatre, Washington, D. C., on April 14, 1865, by John Wilkes Booth, who was killed near Fredericksburg, Va., April 26, 1865, by Sergeant Boston Corbett. Garfield was shot while in the Pennsylvania railroad depot, Washington, D. C., July 2, 1881, and died at Elberon, Long Branch, N. J., September 19, 1881. His assassin was Charles Jules Guiteau, who was hanged at Washington, D. C., June 30, 1882. McKinley was shot twice September 6, 1901, while in the Temple of Music of the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, N. Y., and died from his wounds at the home of John G. Milburn, Buffalo, September 14, 1901. His assassin was Louis Czolgosz, who was electrocuted at Auburn State Prison, New York, October 29, 1901. Roosevelt was shot and slightly wounded by John Schrank, an insane man at Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 14, 1912. The assassins were anarchists and professed no religion, so far as I know.

Dear Dolly—I am 16 years of age and go to school every day, but our teacher says we can't understand our arithmetic, so we write letters to the boys. Dolly do you think there is any harm in us writing good letters and do you think it is any of our teacher's affair if we do write them.

COUNTRY GIRL

Sure it is your teacher's affair. She is responsible for the children under her care during school hours, and it is up to her to see that you study your lessons, and do not do anything unbecoming a little lady. Then, too, her job depends upon whether or not the children under her advance in studies. If you and the other children do not learn your lessons, your parents will blame the teacher. It would never enter their heads that you were a bunch of irresponsible boy-crazy girls. If you do not understand your arithmetic, ask your teacher to explain it to you. If you don't understand it the first time she explains it, keep on asking her until you do understand it.

Dear Dolly—I have been coming to you for advice. I have been going with a fellow for some time. He is a very nice fellow and I think lots of him, but another man calls me up one night each week and asks to take me to the show. Sometimes I go with him and my beau heard about it and got sore about it. When he went home the other night he said he did not think he ever would come back again. Dolly would you advise me to go with the other fellow who calls me up or not. I like the one that got sore the best.

BLUE EYES

If you liked your steady, why did you go with the other man? The only thing you can do now is to go with the one that called you up until the other ones get ready to come back.

Dear Miss Wise—You had a recipe for salt rising bread made with meal in the paper some time ago and I lost the recipe. Will you please publish it again? TIMES READER

Half cup of corn meal, put in a bowl, pour boiling water over it in the evening. In the morning add to this one third teaspoonful soda, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar, and a little warm water, thicken with flour. Put in a warm place to raise; then add one pint of luke warm water to a loaf of bread. Mix stiff and mould into loaves, let rise and bake.

Lucylle—I have said all I have to say about the Chamblin and Witherrow cases and it is useless to ask any more about them. If you want to know anything about the steel mill other than what is printed in the paper from time to time, call up the office and ask for the general manager. I have no inside information about their plans. As for the spring styles, the store windows are full of the last word in style and colors for spring. Take an afternoon off and visit them.

Only Sweet, Fresh Milk Used in GOOD LUCK

Over 300 farms in the famous Elgin dairy district of the Fox River Valley of Illinois are under contract to supply the thousands of gallons of full-cream milk used daily in GOOD LUCK.

Travelling supervisors see that the herds on these farms are kept at the height of physical perfection through scientific breeding, selection, housing, rationing, and other arts of the modern milk producers.

The movement of milk from farm to churnery is in swift freezer cars.

In connection with the churnery a large completely-equipped milk receiving plant is operated at Huntley, Ill. Milk handling devices are up-to-date, and advanced processes are employed.

Unlike some other spreads-for-bread full cream milk is used in GOOD LUCK. This milk is pure and sweet and of the finest quality. Use—

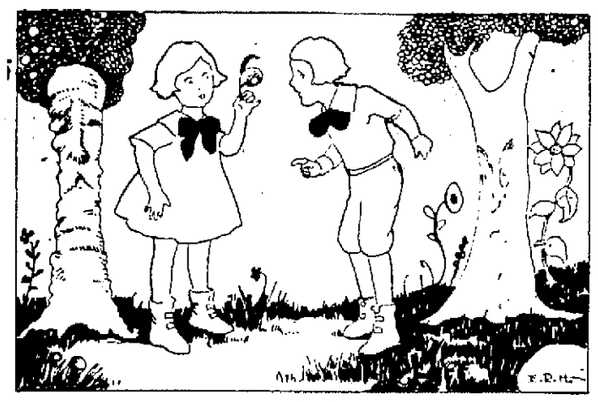
Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON



The feather instantly tied itself into a knot

NANCY and Nick ran to the house and got their goloshes, then back to the orchard where they slipped them on over their Green Shoes.

The Magical Mushroom had gone, but in his place was a little branch sticking up with a note on the end of it addressed to the Twins.

Nancy opened it and out fell a tiny red feather. There was a note, too, and she read: "My dear children: This feather shall be your guide. Hold it before you when in doubt and go in the direction it bends. Affectionately yours, The Magical Mushroom."

Nick put the feather in his pocket, but Nancy was more curious. "Let's look at it, Nickie," she cried. "If it is so important it must be different from other feathers!" So Nick took it out.

Nancy was very right. When the children looked close, behold the bright little feather was made up of a thousand tiny barbs, sharp as the finest needles, but set so firmly together that not the strongest blacksmith with the greatest grippers in the world could pull out one of them.

"It's very queer," said Nancy. "It doesn't look as though it could bend without breaking."

But scarcely had she spoken when the feather instantly tied itself into a knot, then into a bow, and straightening itself did a series of gymnastics that was quite astonishing.

"It must be magical!" declared Nancy.

"Very magical," agreed Nick.

Suddenly the red feather bent toward the east and stayed that way.

"That's the direction we must go to find the lost record," pointed Nancy. "It's showing us the way."

"The seven mountains and the seven valleys must be over there," pointed Nick. "Let's start."

Away they went, little guessing that many days and events would pass before they reached even the first of the mountains, although it seemed so near.

discussed the Fordney bill as originally presented and approved some slight changes. It is understood that further action by the majority would await a report from the tax sub-committee.

The statement was made by a White House official that many letters and telegrams had reached President Harding opposing enactment at this time of bonus legislation, while the executive committee of the American Legion made public a telegram to the president from the legion's national commander, Hanford MacNider, asking that the legislation be no longer delayed.

The letters reaching the president opposing enactment at this time of bonus legislation greatly outnumbered those favoring immediate legislation, it was said at the White house. Some of the opposition letters, it was added, showed, however, a similarity in form.

Commander MacNider in his telegram declared "The negligible minority in opposition can be traced in nearly every case to certain selfish interests intrenched in great financial centers who have the most to lose by defeat and who would profit the most by victory."

The commander said the American Legion did not understand "first commitment and then retraction" on the bonus question.

Suggestions that the cash payments be deferred for a year or longer, apparently have not been favorably received by leading Republicans on the committee. Chairman Fordney has said that in his judgment the bill should provide for beginning the cash payments next October 1.

Mr. MacNider in his telegram declared the legion believes that the issues now being raised relative to the revenue features required by the president to be included in the bill "are being used solely for the purpose of misleading the general public," adding that the legion also believes it is expressing the sentiment of the people of the country when it asks that "a committee administration allow the passage of what we believe to be the most constructive measure that can be devised."

The national commander further asserted that whenever the people of the United States have been given an opportunity to voice their feelings on the question of the bonus, their answer has always been unmistakable."

"Had capital and labor been drafted when men's lives were drafted," the telegram continued, "the present aggravated situation would not exist. When it was a question of reimbursing manufacturers for war contracts never fulfilled, requiring some three billion dollars, no such hue and cry was raised. It was an obligation and it was paid. Certainly the services of the manufacturers, railroad and shipping interests were not so much more patriotic than that of the men who offered their lives."

The legion feels that the nation wants "this debt recognized and not confused or endangered by opposition to revenue raising riders and asks that the five-fold adjusted compensation bill be passed," Mr. MacNider said, adding "that there is a cash feature, but with hundreds of thousands of ex-service men walking the streets of our cities looking for work we do not feel competent to dictate to these men their choice."

The bride will enter leaning on the arm of her father, the king, and followed by her eight bridesmaids and maids of honor, Mary Cambridge, Lady May Cambridge, Lady Rachel Cavendish—said to be the fiance of the Prince of Wales—Lady Doris Gordon-Lennox, Lady Mary Thynne, Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon and Lady Diana Bridgeman.

The wedding ceremony will be performed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the head of the Established Church of England. He will be assisted by a number of bishops.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the bride and bridegroom will be the first to leave the abbey, followed by the bridesmaids and groomsmen, and then by the king and queen and other royalties.

The procession will go back to Buckingham Palace.

If the weather is good, the princess expects to go to and from the abbey in an open carriage, so the people on the streets can see her.

White and Silver.

The wedding will be a white and silver one.

The bride will be attired in a white silk dress, ornamented with silver tissue, and with a long train of similar material.

Her bridesmaids will also wear white silk with silver tissue.

The princess' veil will be the same her mother, the queen, wore at her wedding.

It is probable the bridesmaids will not wear veils, but will have silver bandeaus in their hair instead.

The princess will wear plain white kid gloves and white and silver satin slippers, which have been made especially for her in the town of Norwich.

The women guests at the wedding will not wear evening dress, as was at first expected. Because of the chill in the abbey, it has been decided that they shall wear morning dress.

There are comparatively few buildings along the line of march which are not public buildings. However, speculators have already secured all available space and are charging from $5 to $25 for seats in windows.

Honeymoon Plans

The wedding pair will spend the first part of their honeymoon in England, going to Weston Park, near Shofnal, in Shropshire.

This is the home of Earl and Countess of Bradford, whose daughter, Lady Diana Bridgeman, is to be one of the bridesmaids.

Later, they will go to Italy, where they will be lodged in the magnificent Villa Medici, overlooking the city of Florence.

Missing Minister Is Found

DELAWARE, O., Feb. 20—The mystery of the disappearance July 27, 1920, of Rev. Thomas J. Denny, jr., aged 33, dean of New Orleans college, has been solved by his return here from Indianapolis last Saturday by Sheriff Alkire to answer a charge of non-support, preferred by his wife. He is under grand jury indictment.

At the time of his disappearance, Rev. Denny was lecturing under Lyceum bureau management, his last lecture having been delivered at Bluefield, W. Va. Mrs. Denny, then living in New Orleans, expressed the belief that he had committed suicide. She has been living here, her former home, since last July.

Officials have learned that Rev. Denny had gone to Creede, Colorado, where he was employed as principal and teacher in a high school until February 1, this year, when he resigned to take a position as teacher of physics and chemistry in the Arsenal Tech high school of Indianapolis. A short time previous he had written Ohio Wesleyan university officials here asking for a recommendation to the Indianapolis school officials, and it was in this way that his whereabouts became known. He was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 1910. He also was graduated from Boston Theological Seminary and preached in that vicinity while attending school.

Rev. Denny is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Denny, sr., of Chillicothe. A brother, Rev. James H. Denny, is pastor of a church in Hamilton. He also has a brother in the grocery business in Chillicothe.

ALLEGE OFFICERS USED CLUBS ON LEVERNIER, PROSECUTOR TO PROBE

Prosecuting Attorney George W. Sheppard stated Monday that a thorough investigation of the circumstances surrounding the death of Charles (Frenchy) Levernier would be made and that he would examine all witnesses to the affair.

Levernier died in a taxicab in front of the police station at 1:10 Sunday morning while on his way to Hempstead hospital. A postmortem examination held Sunday showed that he suffered a fractured skull at the base of the brain.

When arrested on Waller street near Tenth by Officers Powers and Cox Saturday night at 10:30, Levernier offered resistance, the officers say, and when he showed fight Levernier was struck several times but was not knocked down.

Mrs. Levernier told Prosecuting Attorney Sheppard Monday morning that she had the names of several persons, who claim they saw the officers use their clubs on Levernier and that they heard the blows when across the street from the scene of the trouble. These witnesses the prosecutor was told are James Hall, a local barber, Tate Sparks, Walter Johnson and Mildred Blaine.

"I am going to call them into my office and sift the case thoroughly. It does not matter if a man does resist arrest the police have no right to club him to death," the prosecutor told a Times man Monday shortly after they left the Levernier home on John street, near Tenth.

Mrs. Levernier says she was told that her husband called Officer Cox a vile name and when he did Cox struck her husband with his mace and knocked him down. This took place, Mrs. Levernier says while Officer Powers was at Tenth and Waller street from where he summoned the police patrol. Mrs. Levernier also said that when Powers returned to her husband he struck him with his fist and knocked him down. She also told Sheppard that when at the police station her husband spit out part of his tongue, the result of being hit over the head by the arresting officers. This was strenuously denied by the arresting officers, who told Chief Distel Levernier was very unruly and that they only used their fists on him and resorted to this to keep him quiet until the patrol arrived. They told Chief Distel that they had trouble with Levernier on frequent occasions and that he always resisted arrest and showed fight when officers tried to bundle him into the patrol.

Chief Distel said last night that Levernier in his time had bragged about whipping four or five policemen.

"He was a very strong and robust man and when drunk was dangerous, but when sober Levernier was a fine fellow and I feel very sorry over his death," Chief Distel said Monday.

According to Mrs. Levernier her husband and a man known as William Van Kirk got into an argument at Tenth and Waller street and when they resorted to their fists both men were badly used up. Van Kirk told the police that Levernier struck him and kicked him after he was lying on the ground. He said he was drinking and could not remember just what led up to the trouble between him and Levernier. He was taken to Hempstead hospital, where his injuries were dressed. They were not of a serious nature. After the fight Levernier walked over to Clifford's poolroom on Waller street, where he was arrested by Officers Powers and Cox on charges of being drunk and disorderly.

When seen by a Times man Monday, Officer Powers, who lives at Twelfth and Waller streets gave his version of the affair as follows: "When I walked over to the patrol box at Tenth and Waller streets to call the police Levernier struck at Officer Cox and called him a vile name. When Levernier struck the second time Cox hit the prisoner over the head two or three times. They were light blows and Levernier was not knocked down. I am positive about that. When I returned to Levernier he was still on the warpath and I struck him lightly with my fist. This did not stop him and he refused to be quiet until he reached the police station. When we ran into Levernier his head was covered with blood as he was knocked down several times in his fight with Van Kirk."

Officer Cox verified every statement made by Powers and says that he hit Levernier very lightly as he has arrested him before and knows that Levernier is not dangerous unless drinking.

When asked about the postmortem examination today Coroner Hendrickson said he would not render his verdict before Tuesday. He said that Levernier had suffered a fractured skull. He also stated that an analysis of his stomach had been made to determine if the man's death was caused by drinking poisoned moonshine.

Rail Union Call Political Conference

CHICAGO, February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—A national political conference called by a committee of railroad union men began today for the announced purpose of forming plans for participation in primaries and election next fall. More than 100 labor leaders and representatives of various minor political factions were expected to be present by tonight.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—(By Associated Press.)—A program of non-partisan political action which "will result in retiring from public life the servants of plutocracy and privilege," was urged before a conference of more than 100 labor and farm movement leaders by William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, in convening the conference today.

The organizations and groups represented, he declared, should "get together in the several states and work unitedly in the approaching primaries and in the fall election and elect men who believe in fundamental American principles."

The general plan of the conference, it was said, was to lay down a set of principles by which the interests of the groups represented at the conference would be looked after. While there was no expectation of forming a separate political party at the present gathering, Chairman Johnston and other delegates expressed the hope that a new party might be organized in time to take an active part in the 1924 elections.

Meanwhile it will be the object of the labor leaders to work for the election of candidates of the existing parties who are favorable to their program.

Harding Gets Resignation Of Landis

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The resignation of Federal Judge Landis, announced Saturday in Chicago, was received today at the White House. It was written in Judge Landise' own hand-writing, was dated Chicago, February 18, and read as follows:

"Dear Mr. President:—

"I resign as district judge for the northern district of Illinois, effective March 1, 1922.

"Very respectfully,

"KENESAW MOUNTAIN LANDIS."

The letter was addressed simply to "The President, Washington, D. C."

Former Representative Welty, of Ohio, who filed impeachment proceedings against Judge Landis in the house last year because of his service as baseball arbiter, made public today a letter to President Harding asking that the judge's resignation be not accepted.

"The 66th congress on February 14, 1921," said the letter, "ordered the committee on the judiciary to investigate and report but for lack of time they asked the 67th congress to make an investigation.

"If you should accept the resignation of Judge Landis, you will take away the impeachment jurisdiction from congress. The senate held in the Blount and Belknap cases that persons cannot be impeached after they cease to be 'civil officers of the United States'."

Plan To Use Airplanes In Fight On Rum Runners

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Use of airplanes along the Florida coast in the war on rum smugglers was understood today to be under consideration by prohibition headquarters.

Plans for the use of airplanes against rum runners were understood to be part of a gigantic program being worked out by prohibition authorities involving activities in the air, on the water and on land to stem the tide of illicit liquor flowing into the country from West Indian and other islands.

Commissioner Haynes and other high prohibition officials refused today to disclose details of the anti-smuggling campaign, but it was indicated that extraordinary means would be adopted to cope with the situation in Florida.

Commissioner Haynes, according to officials, is prepared to utilize all possible machinery available or obtainable to combat the liquor runners. Officials would not discuss plans for a liquor escadrille in Florida, nor the possibility of the formation of an anti-alcoholic navy mobilized with former sub-chasers, but the marshalling of these forces in the south were understood to be tentatively decided upon.

Several weeks ago the assignment of a special force of prohibition agents to Florida was announced as the first step in the southern campaign, but since then the plan of the smuggling war has been kept as quiet as possible by authorities here.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—Foreign oils were the outstanding features at the active and firm opening of today's stock market. Adjustment of export taxes between the Mexican government and American oil companies resulted in an opening advance of 1¼ point for Mexican Petroleum, this being doubled in the next few transactions. The strength of foreign exchanges, with British and French remittances at new high levels, prompted further covering of short contracts in rails, equipments and other speculative favorites. Missouri Pacific preferred rose 1½ point, St. Louis and San Francisco common 1 point and the coalers, especially Reading and Lehigh Valley, gained large fractions. Sugars and chemicals represented the firmer specialties.

Last week's accumulation of low priced or speculative rails was resumed on a broader scale during the morning. St. Louis Southwestern common and preferred, St. Louis and San Francisco common and preferred, Southern Railway common and preferred, Chicago Great Western, Kansas City Southern, Texas and Mexico rose 1 to 2 points. Royal Dutch and Pan-American followed the further rise of Mexican Petroleum. Shippings were active and strong, especially Pacific Mail and American Ship and Commerce. Motors and accessories, including Electrical Equipments, rose 1½ to 3 points. Conspicuous weakness was shown by Seneca Copper, Columbia Gas and National Enamelling, the latter losing 5 points. Call money opened at four per cent.

The short interest in the stock market sustained another setback today on confident buying of rails and the popular industrials and specialties. Sales approximated 800,000 shares. The closing was easy.

Heiress To Marry

seriously interfere with their welfare. Muriel at one time demanded a separate apartment from the family in New York and the wish was granted.

Later she decided to live in a hotel and there was no objection. Mathilde's desire to live abroad, even after there was no longer need for it so far as her health was concerned, met with no opposition from the family, it was said.

The romance of the young grand-daughter of John D. Rockefeller was pictured by Emil L. Burgy, Chicago interior decorator, who says he is a first cousin of the Swiss equestrian, as a love of spring and winter.

"Mr. Oser is not three times Miss McCormick's age, as the newspapers have stated," said Mr. Burgy.

"He is older: he is 57 years old, not 47. He is just my age. I am his cousin and I should know."

That Oser is possessed of noble blood and also has a reasonably large independent income, also was stated by Mr. Burgy. Mr. Burgy believes that the estimate of the riding master's income at $10,000 a year, is erroneous.

In explaining the relationship to Oser, Burgy stated that his father, Henry Burgy, was the brother of Max Oser's mother.

Max Oser is tall and statuesque, according to Mr. Burgy. His erect stature and his riding ability are direct results of many years with the Swiss artillery, said Mr. Burgy.

Claim Still Was Unused

When New Boston officers raided the home of Arthur Conklin on Glenwood avenue, Sunday, they found only part of a still instead of the complete outfit they expected to uncover. The parts of the still were located in an upstairs room. A large quantity of mash was also found. According to Mayor William Newberry, Mr. and Mrs. Conklin claimed they had not yet used the still as they just received it a couple of days ago from a Chicago mail order house. Conklin was arrested on a charge of possessing a still and was later released on a $500 bond with orders to appear for trial Monday evening at 5:30 o'clock.

At the last session of Council, February 6, Mayor Newberry filed charges of gross neglect of duty against Chief Haselip who was to appear tonight for a hearing. Chief Haselip intends to fight the charges to a finish.

Conference On Tariff

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Ranking Republicans of the house ways and means committee were invited today by the majority of the senate finance committee to a conference to discuss the valuation plan to be written into pending tariff bill. The conference will be held late today.

The invitation from the finance committee majority followed the statement of Chairman Fordney, of the house committee, on Saturday that if the senate adopted a bill with a foreign valuation clause the house would rewrite it with an American valuation provision "and let the senate try again." The foreign plan already has been agreed on tentatively by the senate committee majority which has begun rewriting ad valorem rates in the house bill on that basis.

Besides Chairman Fordney, Representatives Green, of Iowa, and Longworth, of Ohio, are to attend the intercommittee conference which was called in an effort to smooth out differences between the two committees on the American valuation plan and prevent any disagreement developing after the long fight which is ahead of the tariff bill in the senate.

OBITUARY

Mrs. C. W. Bierley

The passing away of Mrs. C. W. Bierley, which occurred at her home on Hutchins street, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, was not unexpected, as she had been in a serious condition for several months. Her last moments were unconscious and death came as a peaceful sleep.

Myrtle Louise Monteith was born at Carrs, Kentucky, October 3, 1879, where she lived during her girlhood and early womanhood. Early in life she joined the Methodist church. She afterwards transferred her letter to the Second Presbyterian church of this city, with which she remained a faithful member.

On December 20, 1898, she was united in marriage to Charles William Bierley. To this union one son was born, Harold C.

Early in 1908 the family moved to Manchester, Ohio, where they remained six years, thence moving to Portsmouth, locating on Hutchins street, where they have since resided. Mrs. Bierley's illness began two years ago and continued until her death. In November 1920, she was removed to Grant Hospital, Columbus, where she underwent a delicate surgical operation. This restored her health only temporarily. After being absent from the hospital for a short time she contracted a deep cold, which caused another severe illness. After remaining bedfast for several weeks she slightly improved and was taken to Asheville, North Carolina, hoping that the mountain climate would be of benefit. After remaining there for eight months her condition did not improve so she was brought back to her home. In spite of all efforts she gradually grew worse and after continued sufferings Mrs. Bierley answered the final summons.

Mrs. Bierley was a woman of the most likeable character, and her cheerful, friendly disposition won her many dear friends, but her interests always centered in the home, where she made happiness by her tender care and motherly kindness. There is no loss so irreparable as that of such a mother and wife.

Her passing away, though expected, was a great shock to her loved ones. She leaves to mourn her death, her husband and son of Portsmouth, and father and mother of Carrs, Ky., and many other relatives.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 1924 Hutchins street at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday. The body will be taken to Manchester, Ohio, for burial Wednesday morning, where short funeral services will be held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Foster, Rev. Hugh J. Evans of this city officiating.

Leonard G. Valentine

Leonard G. Valentine, 55, of 2503 south Third street, died at his home late Saturday evening after a ten weeks' illness of pneumonia. Mr. Valentine was widely known throughout the city.

He is survived by his wife and three daughters, and one son; Rosa and Ruth at home; Mrs. Dan Carey of Coal Grove and Gray Valentine of this city. Two sisters also survive, Mrs. Lou Frecka of this city and Mrs. Rosa Corbin of Ashland, Ky.—Irontonian.

Mrs. Albert McFarland

Death Sunday morning claimed Mrs. Albert McFarland, who passed away at her home in Los Angeles, Cal., where she had resided for many years. Her death was caused by influenza and followed a short illness. Mrs. McFarland was well known here as she was a highly esteemed resident of this city for many years. Her husband formerly conducted the Weekly Tribune when it was in existence in this city and was one of the best known newspapermen in this section when in harness. Mrs. McFarland, who was a woman of loveable traits and refinements is survived by two children, Dan McFarland and Mrs. Ella Bonsall, of Los Angeles. Two other children, Mrs. Jennie Damarin and Albert McFarland passed away several years ago. The deceased also leaves three grandchildren here, Mrs. Andy Rice, Don McFarland and Miss Nell McFarland.

The McFarland family for years was one of the most influential in this city and the news of the passing away of Mrs. McFarland will be learned of with sincere regret.

Bingo! So. Webster Selects Come Back With Wallop

Mr. H. E. Taylor, Editor Times:—Will you please publish the following letter:

Answer to Select letter:

The Portsmouth Selects seem to be greatly disappointed over the showing they made recently at South Webster. We want to call their attention to the guarantee of $50, of which they said we made them. In fact and in plain figures, we did not offer them $50, as they stated that they would come out for the gate receipts outside our actual expense. Thus they got, which was a plenty for the showing they made. The $30 we are sure paid all their expenses here, as we are frank in saying that the rest of the team does not see anything coming their way only a 25 cent necktie at Christmas time. We are sorry the Selects would not take us up at the offer we gave them, as we will mortgage our homes in saying the Selects cannot double that score of 31 which they claim they made.

SITUATION IN NORTHERN IRELAND MUCH CALMER; TROOPS STILL ON BORDER

BELFAST, Feb. 20—(By Associated Press)—The situation in northern Ireland is considerably calmer than at any time during the last week, and the news of a clash on the southern border has dwindled almost to the vanishing point. The rival forces, however, retain their positions along the border and hope is expressed that the next few days will see them withdrawn, as the proximity of such heavily armed forces is looked upon as a potential menace to peace.

Liason Commission at Work

Meanwhile, the joint liason commissions are understood to have begun their operations. They will apparently institute a sort of patrol on each side of the border, keeping in touch with each other and using their influence where it may be needed in the interests of peace.

Order Prisoners Freed

COLUMBUS, O., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Attorney General Price issued an opinion today holding that county auditors are not authorized by law to prepare folders or circulars containing information as to disbursement of funds raised by taxation, or to defray the expense of such work from the county treasury.

The ruling was made to the state bureau of accounting, which reported that Auditor Zangerle, of Cuyahoga county, had prepared such circulars for distribution in Cleveland, East Cleveland, Lakewood, West Park and Cleveland Heights.

Strength On Exchange

NEW YORK, February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Further improvement in European economic conditions caused an increase of activity and greater strength in the foreign exchange market today with speculators hurrying to cover on commitments.

Demand bills on London rose nearly five cents to $4.39, the highest figure since 1919.

Charge Japs Conceal Oil

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—Charges that propagandists have concealed the extent of Japan's oil possessions are made in a statement issued today by the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers at the opening of its annual meeting.

"Japan possesses much more oil than her propogandists have tried to make the world believe she has," the statement says.

At the present rate of consumption according to the statement, Japan has three centuries of supply, while the United States has only 20 years of probable oil reserves.

ERSKINE DALE PIONEER

by JOHN FOX Jr.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Erskine Dale, captured in infancy by the Indians, is adopted by the chief Kahtoo and reared as an Indian under the name of White Arrow. He is told that his mother, captured with him, was killed.

"Maltreated by an Indian brave Erskine flees to a settlers' stockade in Kentucky and is recognized by his mortally wounded father. The boy goes to Red Oaks, the great Dale plantation on the James River, now occupied by Colonel Dale, younger brother of Erskine's father. The boy is kindly received by his cousins, Barbara and Harry. Erskine flees to the wilderness and leaves Red Oaks legally his, to Barbara, after threatening to kill Dane Grey, with whom he has quarreled in jealousy over the girl. He is met by Shawnee Indians who persuade him to visit his foster-father, the old chief Kahtoo. In the Indian camp he finds a white woman condemned to death. Her beautiful half-breed daughter, Early Morn, is loved by Erskine's enemy, Black Wolf.

Erskine on his return from a war council where he sided with the Americans after all the tribe had agreed to throw their fighting forces with the British was taken captive by Black Wolf and his followers and held as a spy and traitor while plans were made to burn him at the stake but not until Erskine had succeeded in saving the condemned woman.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

The braves then went to their fire-water, and soon the boy's foster-mother brought him something to eat, but she could say nothing, for Black Wolf had appointed himself sentinel and sat rifle in hand at the door of the lodge.

Night came on. The drinking became more furious and once Erskine saw a pale-brown arm thrust from behind the lodge and place a jug at the feet of Black Wolf, who grunted and drank deep. One by one the braves went to drunken sleep about the fire. The fire died down and by the last flickering flame the lad saw Black Wolf's chin sinking sleepily to his chest.

There was the slightest rustle behind the tent. He felt something groping for his hands and feet, felt the point of a knife graze the skin of his wrist and ankles—felt the thongs loosen and drop apart.

Noiselessly, inch by inch, he crept to the wall of the tent, which was carefully lifted for him. Outside he rose and waited.

Like a shadow the girl Early Morn, stole before him and like a shadow he followed. The loose snow muffled his escape from the lodge, and in a few minutes they were by the river-bank, away from the town.

The moon rose and from the shadow of a beech the white woman stepped forth with his rifle and powder-horn and bullet-pouch and some food. She pointed to his horse a little farther down. He looked long and silently into the Indian girl's eyes and took the white woman's shaking hand. Once he looked back. The Indian girl was stoic as stone. A bar of moonlight showed the white woman's face wet with tears.

Again Dave Yandell from a watch-tower saw a topknot rise above a patch of cane now leafless and winter-bitten—saw a hand lifted high above it with a palm of peace toward him.

And again an Indian youth emerged, this time leading a black horse with a dropping head. Both came painfully on, staggering, it seemed, from wounds or weakness, and Dave sprang from the tower and rushed with others to the gate. So gaunt were boy and beast that it was plain that both were starving. The boy's face was torn with briers and pinched with hunger and cold, but a faint smile came from it.

"Don't you know me, Dave?" he asked weakly.

"My God! It's White Arrow!"

XIII

WHEN winter was breaking, more news came of the war. The flag that had been fashioned of a soldier's white shirt, an old blue army coat, and a red petticoat was now the Stars and Stripes of the American cause.

Burgoyne had not cut off New England, that "head of the rebellion," from the other colonies. On the contrary, the Americans had beaten him at Saratoga and marched his army off under those same Stars and Stripes, and for the first time Erskine heard of gallant Lafayette—how he had run to Washington with the portentous news from his king—that beautiful, passionate France would not stretch forth her helping hand.

And Erskine learned what that news meant to Washington's "naked and starving" soldiers dying on the frozen hillsides of Valley Forge. Then George Rogers Clark had passed the fort on his way to Williamsburg to get money and men for his great venture in the Northwest. After Clark was gone the lad got restless; and one morning when the first breath of spring came he mounted his horse, in spite of arguments and protestations, and set forth for Virginia on the wilderness trail. He was going to join Clark, he said, but more than Clark and the war were drawing him to the outer world.

What is was he hardly knew, for he was not yet much given to searching his heart or mind. He did know, however, that some strange force had long been working within him that was steadily growing stronger. With his mind's eye he was ever seeing at the end of his journey the face of his little cousin Barbara Dale.

A striking figure the lad made riding into the old capital one afternoon just before the sun sank behind the western woods.

The governor's palace was closed and deserted. My Lord Dunmore was long in flight. But there was the host of 87 Walker in front of Raleigh Tavern, and there he drew up, before the steps where he was once nigh to taking Dane Grey's life.

The little tavern was thronged and the air charged with the spirit of war. Indeed, nothing else was talked.

Next morning Erskine rode forth along a sandy road, amidst the singing of birds and through a forest of tiny upshooting leaves, for Red-Oaks on the James.

He had forsworn Colonel Dale to secrecy as to the note he had left behind giving his birthright to his little cousin, Barbara, and he knew the confidence would be kept inviolate.

At the boat landing he hitched his horse to the low-swung branch of an oak. There was the sun-dial that had marked every sunny hour since he had been away. For a moment he stood there, and when he stepped into the open he shrank back hastily—a girl was coming through the opening of boxwood from the house—coming slowly, bareheaded, her hands clasped behind her, her eyes downward.

His heart throbbed as he waited, throbbed the more when his ears caught even the soft tread of her little feet, and seemed to stop when she paused at the sun-dial, and searched the river with her eyes.

Soon the girl fluttered a handkerchief and from the single passenger in the stern came an answering flutter of white and a glad cry. At the bend of the river the boat disappeared from Erskine's sight under the bank, and he watched the girl.

How she had grown! Her slim figure had rounded and shot upward, and her white gown had dropped to her dainty ankles.

Now her face was flushed and her eye flashed with excitement—it was no mere kinsman in that boat, and the boy's heart began to throb fiercely with racking emotions he had never known before.

A fiery-looking youth sprang up the landing-steps, bowed gallantly over the girl's hand, and the two turned up the path, the girl rosy with smiles and the youth bending over her with a most protecting and tender air. It was Dane Grey, and the heart of the watcher turned mortal sick.

XIV

BARBARA saw him first and she did not rush forward. Instead she stopped, with wide eyes, a stifled cry, and a lifting of one hand toward her heart. Grey saw too, flushed rather painfully and calmed himself.

"Why, have I changed so much?" Erskine cried.

"Of course I knew you," she faltered, paling a little but gathering herself rather haughtily—a fact that Erskine seemed not to notice. "You took me by surprise and you have changed—but I don't know how much."

BOTH CAME PAINFULLY ON, STAGGERING FROM WOUNDS OR WEAKNESS.

The significance of this, too, seemed to pass Erskine by.

"Never to you, my dear cousin," he said gallantly, and then he bowed to Dane Grey, not offering to shake hands.

The great dinner-bell from behind the house boomed its summons to the woods and fields.

"Come on," called Harry, who had just appeared. "I imagine you're hungry, cousin."

"I am," said Erskine. "I've had nothing to eat since—since early morn." Barbara's eyes flashed upward and Grey was plainly startled. Was there a slight stress on those two words?

Mrs. Dale was visiting down the river, so Barbara sat in her mother's place.

"Now, you White Arrow, you Big Chief, tell us the story," said Harry.

Grey began to look uncomfortable, and so, in truth, did Barbara.

"What have you heard?" asked Erskine quietly.

"Never mind," interposed Barbara quickly; "you tell us."

"What!" shouted Harry, when Erskine told of the powwow. "You told both that you would fight with the whites against both? What'd they do to you?"

Erskine smiled.

"I jumped over the heads of the outer ring and ran."

"Well," said Harry, impatiently, "that isn't the end."

"I went back to the camp, Crooked Lightning followed me and they tied me and were going to burn me at the stake."

"Good heavens!" breathed Barbara. "How'd you get away?"

"The Indian girl, Early Morn, slipped under the tent and cut me loose. The white woman got my gun, and Firefly, you know nothing can catch Firefly." The silence was intense. Grey was painfully flushed.

"And you want to know what I am going to do now? Erskine went on. "I'm going with Captain George Rogers Clark with what command are you, Mr. Grey?"

"That's a secret," he smiled coolly. "I'll let you know later," and Barbara, with an inward sigh of relief, rose quickly.

"But the white woman?" questioned Harry. "Why doesn't she leave the Indians?"

"Early Morn—a half-breed—is her daughter," said Erskine simply.

"Oh!" and Harry questioned no further.

"Early Morn was the best-looking Indian girl I ever saw," said Erskine, "and the bravest." For the first time Grey glanced at Barbara. "She saved my life," Erskine went on gravely, "and mine is hers whenever she needs it."

Barbara excused herself with a courtesy. Hugh went to the stables, Harry disappeared for a moment, and the two were left alone. With smouldering fire Erskine turned to Grey.

Says The Eighteenth Amendment Is A Mistake

CHICAGO, February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Bishop Thomas F. Gailor, president of the National Council of the Episcopal church, said in an address here last night that he believed "the eighteenth amendment was a mistake." He also said that he believed in the modification of the Volstead law.

"I am in favor of morality," he said, "and I personally observe the Volstead law, but I am opposed to putting sumptuary laws of so drastic a character in the constitution. It partakes of the old philosophy that matter is inherently evil. I am not speaking in the interests of the underworld, but in the interests of intelligent upstanding men."

TALE OF MODERN RED RIDING HOOD

Mrs. Mary Harris

"The most remarkable and satisfactory manner in which Pepgen relieved me of nervous indigestion, after I had tried scores of other remedies without avail, causes me to advise every person who is troubled with their stomach or nerves to try the greatest of all family tonics," says Mrs. Mary Harris, 1019 S. Eighteenth street, Louisville, Ky.

"The action of Pepgen reminds me of the tale of little Red Riding Hood," continues Mrs. Harris. "Little Red Riding Hood was unsuspectingly led to a hut in the woods by a vicious bear that had already devoured her grandmother. Happily, the woodman with his axe saved the life of Little Red Riding Hood, and just as happily Pepgen, with its great tonic properties, has saved the health of modern Red Riding Hoods in the shape of men and women, from such foes as stomach, liver and kidney complaints.

"It surely is most pleasant not to be so excitable as I used to be, and I credit Pepgen with my relief. For more than a year I suffered with indigestion and nervousness. I could not digest heavy foods—they gave me cramps. I had a gnawing feeling in the pit of my stomach. I often had smothering spells, and at times I thought I would smother to death.

"Pepgen relieved me of these complaints and I now have a good appetite and can eat whatever I desire. Recently I ate both cabbage and chili-con-carne the same evening, and they didn't hurt me a bit. I think any person who can eat chili-con-carne hasn't any stomach trouble. Pepgen deserves my recommendation."

Pepgen costs but little. Every person who is troubled with nervousness or indigestion should try it. Don't wait another day. Why suffer with sick headache, constipation, sleeplessness, sallow complexion, pains in the back and other symptoms that are caused by disordered stomach, kidneys or liver. Pepgen has relieved hundreds of thousands. Why not you?

Pepgen may be obtained in Portsmouth at the Fisher and Streich Pharmacy and at other first class pharmacies.

HUNTINGTON SCRIBE SAYS BLAIR GOES THROUGH ACID TEST WITH COLORS FLYING; PRAISES NIG

Butler Had Everything In His Favor But Could Not Win

(BY DUKE RIDGLEY)

HUNTINGTON, Feb. 20—Sergeant "Nig" Blair versus Earl Butler was the card offered to the fistic fans of Portsmouth, Friday night. It was the aired test for the dark-skinned, low-head Blair, but the fighting soldier came through with khaki colors flying at the tip peak of the flag pole. The slugging sergeant has always been a popular favorite in Portsmouth, but he is more popular today than ever before.

Blair has been forging rapidly to the front during the past few months. His rapid fire wins over Kid Layman and Eddie Moore stamped him as a scrapper of note, but it was not until he held Earl Butler to a draw verdict in ten rounds that his value was uncovered.

This Butler person is one of the toughest eggs hatched in Cincinnati, the home base of a hundred bear-cat boxers. They have hatched some hard-boiled ones in the Queen City as those who recall Billy Ryan, Jack Sheppard, "K. O." Marc and Patsey Haley, will admit without an argument.

Yes, Butler was a pretty baby to toss against Blair, but the Portsmouth youth never weakened. Butler had every advantage, reach, heighth, weight and most of all—experience. They started out at a dizzy clip in the first round and nobody seated at the ringside thought they could possibly go the limit at the rate opened up with, but they did. There was not an idle minute in the ten stanzas.

When the final gong ended the melee, Referee Hughie Ruddy raised the right hand gloves of both boys high in the air in token of a draw decision. It would have been a rank injustice to either boy to have called it anything else, but a fifty-fifty verdict.

Butler did not leave the ring without showing evidence that he had been in an honest to goodness fight. In the very first round "Nig" caught him with a wild haymaker that raised a lump as big as the water tank on the top of the Selby Shoe Factory under Earl's left optic. Both boys did their share of the leading and both were willing and ready to mix it from gong to gong.

Now that this one is over, how would you like to see a little "Kid" Smith-"Nig" Blair? We thought you would. This is a card that would pack 'em in up to the rafters. They would have to stretch the arena to accommodate the crowd. This bout is almost in sight now.

WAS ALL IN IN ROUND No. 1

"How do you feel, Earl?" Billy Ryan asked Butler after the second round the other night.

"I am all in," was Butler's reply.

"Then change your style of fighting. Don't stand up there and try to slug with Blair. Keep your left in his face all the time and you will have him off his stride and he can't maul you," Ryan sagaciously remarked. And this is what Butler elected to do and gradually recuperated. He frankly admitted that Blair almost had him out in Round No. 1. Blair for some reason or other did not follow up his wicked punches in that round like he usually does.

Butler Tickled To Death To Get Draw

One Nig Blair has already started in training for his next opponent, who has not as yet been selected.

He came out of the Butler mill with a discolored optic, but it is coming around rapidly and the good natured boxer is all to the merry again. After the fight Friday night Butler dropped into a fizz joint to get a drink. Someone recognized him and asked him how it came that he did not put Blair away.

"Put that boy away? Why it cannot be done. I am tickled to death to get a draw with that tough bird." And the real truth was being uttered.

Peeping Through The Ropes

Gibbons will be a 3 to 2 favorite over Greb when they clash in New York.

It will not be long before Nig Blair will be displaying his fistic skill before Columbus and Cincinnati fans.

The move of the local Boxing Commission to have all boys weigh in before going in the ring is a splendid one.

The next match Sutter has will be with a local boy. He is a comer if handled properly and not overmatched.

Billy Ryan was amazed at the size of the crowd that witnessed the Blair-Butler go. "Gee, but boxing is popular in this town," he said as he gazed around at the fans that had jammed their way into the Auditorium.

Champion Benny Leonard has challenged the winner of the Charley White-Willie Jackson fight in New York. A little more soft money.

Now we suppose Kid Smith of Huntington will be angling for a crack at Blair. It is likely that Smith will be accommodated if he can settle down to 142.

Bob Martin and Eddie Civil will hook up in Clyffeside Park on March 3. Martin's bank account evidently needs replenishing.

Harvard Football Star Goes To Work

Charley Brickley, famous Harvard football star of a few years, has decided to go to work.

Since his graduation Brickley has been coaching football and promoting professional grid elevens.

Brickley has been taking on weight rapidly the last three or four years, and finds the life of an athlete a rather irksome one.

Inability to hold his condition, and the thought that football offered nothing big for him, caused him to decide to go to work, as he puts it.

He is now employed in a carpet factory in Connecticut and is determined to learn the business "from the ground up."

Brickley has made his start at hauling loads of raw material to and from the various departments in the plant.

His football experience will come in handy on this job. He is finding a 500 pound bale of wool just as tough to handle as trying to plunge through a couple of 200-pound guards or tackles.

This Sounds Springy; Cubs In Training

CHICAGO, Feb. 20—The Chicago Nationals, first major league club to reach the training camp, will get into action on Catalina island, off the California coast today, according to special dispatches published here. The Cubs arrived late yesterday and found Grover Cleveland Alexander, star heaver, in fine condition from his winter training. The first practice session for the pitchers and catchers forming the advance squad will consist of only easy overhand lobbing to get winterbound muscles loosened.

Class To Entertain

On Thursday night, in the First Evangelical Sunday school gym, the boys class taught by Louis Weiss, will be entertained by the boys class taught by E. L. Schusky. The program for the evening includes indoor baseball and basketball.

Are Too Erratic

Any club in either of the major leagues would welcome a good left-hander. Strangely enough Cleveland and New York, the two contenders last year, and picked to show well this year, are lacking a good, steady southpaw. Mails and Harper are too erratic to get much consideration.

"Bisko" To Retire

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—Stanislaus Zbyszko, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, plans to retire undefeated in May and to place his title in the care of his younger brother, Wladek.

The younger Zbyszko is to engage Joe Stecher, former champion, in a bout in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. If Wladek wins, his older brother will make his plans for retirement.

It's "Peerless"

Well, Well, Look Who Is Here?

Another "fighter" has entered the game from the Peerless City. "Hard Egg" aKyser is the latest addition to the ranks of the glove "artists." Kayser is issuing a challenge through this notice to any 155 pound boxer in the city. He wishes to go six rounds in one of the preliminaries. The acceptance may be made through The Times.

DUGAN MAY JOIN DETROIT TIGERS

Now comes the rumor that Joe Dugan may go to the Detroit club via a trade which will involve Pitcher Ehmke. Detroit needs infielders while Boston lacks good pitchers. However, it is hard to see where Dugan would strengthen Detroit. The Tigers need a shortstop and a second baseman, while Dugan is a third sacker. He can't play either of the two positions at which Detroit is weak.

CHILLICOTHE, OHIO, Feb. 20—Colonel C. J. Symmonds, who has ceased work as President of United States Vocational School No. 1, stated today that his separation from the United States Veteran's Bureau followed his request and was due to ill-health. Colonel Symmonds worked night and day in launching the bureau's project.

Tell It To Landis

Over half of the Philadelphia Athletics, according to rumor, have agreed to hold out because of the low salaries offered them. All Connie Mack has to say is that they should take their case to Landis if not satisfied.

Ironton Teams Easily Defeated

IRONTON, Feb. 20—The Ironton High School quintet were hopelessly outclassed Saturday evening when they played the Ashland High Floor team at Ashland. The local team never had a chance to take the game as the Kentuckians started off in whirlwind fashion and kept up the pace until the end and piled up a total of 53 points while Ironton was making 13.

The local High School Girls were also decisively outplayed 50 to 5.

Southworth Has Not Signed Yet

Billy Southworth, hard hitting right fielder of the Boston Braves has not signed his 1922 contract but probably will in a few days. He was with President Grant of the Boston team when the latter was in Cincinnati Saturday and traded Pitcher John Scott for Larry Kopf and Rube Marquard. The latter two are eminently pleased to join the Beanies while Scott is delighted to become a Redleg.

Three Games Tonight

Tonight, in the First Evangelical Sunday School gym, three hotly contested basketball games will be staged. The Rifle Troop and Troop 5 teams will battle with the Nature Troop and Troop 1 fives. An admission of 10 cents will be charged for the three games.

BARRED FROM ATTENDING EASTERN COLLEGES

LINCOLN, NEB., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Instructors in any of the state normal colleges of Nebraska hereafter will be refused leaves of absence to study or attend the Universities of Columbia, Chicago and Northwestern, because the testimony of those who have been students, and news items in the daily press show that cigarette smoking is "common among women in these institutions,' under a resolution adopted today by the board of education of the state normal schools.

Open Probe of Dye Monopoly

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Request for issuance of subpoenas for more than thirty officers and representatives of dye and chemical manufacturing concerns was made by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, today at the opening of senate investigation into the alleged dye monopoly and its activities in connection with legislation.

A QUERY A DAY

By BILLY EVANS

Batter leaves the box after swinging at the ball and missing. The catcher returns the ball to the pitcher, who, while the batter is still out of the box, makes a quick return of the ball to the catcher. The pitcher is in his legal position on the rubber when he delivers the ball, and it is over the heart of the plate waist high. What do major league umpires do on such a play?

TECHNICALLY batters have no right to step out of the batter's box while the ball is in play. However, it is quite the custom to do so and such action is generally tolerated. Umpires make it a point to immediately suspend play when the batter takes such action, if he does so for any reason other than to protest the judgment of the umpire.

If the batsman gets out of the box merely to protest, the umpires regard it as a legal pitch and if it is over the plate it is a strike. On the other hand if the batsman has a good reason for stepping out, play is considered as suspended and no action taken on the pitch.

Greb vs. Smith

There is going to be a fistic argument in Cincinnati tonight when Jeff Smith and Harry Greb swap punches in the same ring. It will be Greb's last fight until he meets Tommy Gibbons in New York on March 14. And sweet William, but this will be some battle.

Bowlers In Last Lap Of Tournament

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 20—With bowlers from Cleveland, Columbus, Akron, Alliance and Martin's Ferry on the alleys, the Ohio state bowling tournament today swung into its final stages. Yesterday's rolling produced only a single change in the standings of the events, C. Gadker and J. Klingman of Dayton annexing second place in the doubles, with 1245.

Skyrockets Explode; Overwhelmed By Selects

Saturday night at Catlettsburg, Baesman's Selects won a 60 to 16 game from the Skyrockets of that city. The Ashland Independent said of the game:

"Thus the doubtful tale of the mighty Skyrockets' downfall is told, "and who'd a thunk it?" Well, it was hard to believe until the Buckeye state's champion "feather twirlers" invaded the Blue Grass and took away the spoils of a terrible victory, which no other aggregation in the whole of the tri-state has been able to do, and according to Baesman the Ohioan's star center and captain, in an interview after the game, no other team in the tri-state will be able to do very soon. The tall lanky "center" said the gate city boys, according to his notion, were as good as they had played in this section, and that they would undoubtedly be accorded the tri-state championship at the close of the season. "Hugh Chatfield's warriors were good," he proclaimed.

The Skyrockets went down in glorious defeat, before the swift, magnificent machine like on-rush of the undefeated Portsmouth Select team, who were only a few days ago accorded the championship of southern Ohio and are easily in the running for state-wide honors.

Bewildered, unsteadied, yet not unnerved by the mysterious Portsmouth system of passing, the locals struggled through the first half of Saturday night's contest, the score at the end of the period being 39-9. The local five could not in any way compete with the marvelous and brilliant passing machine, who, judging by their style of play must have been raised playing basketball. Their shooting was perfect. Whenever a Select man was left unguarded for one minute a basket would almost certainly be the result. The opening period was truly one sided from start to finish and discouragement reigned among the enthusiastic crowd of local fans, who at times were led to bursts of loud laughter, by the comic antics of the tall Portsmouth center, who was worth three men himself. It was hard to stop the rangey lad from making a basket without climbing up on his neck, and a foul therewith being accorded the offender. It seemed as though all he had to do when in possession of the sphere, was to extend his long arms upward and drop it through the iron ring. Portsmouth's forwards were class personified and the Skyrocket guards were unable to stay with the slippery shooters from down the river, who it seemed, never missed a shot when within range of the net.

Six years of practice together told the tale, and Huss' five were overwhelmed by superior basketball, otherwise, "real honest-to-goodness basketball." The Selects are the cleanest team ever seen in this section, and not a flaw interrupted the now historic battle.

Curve Ball Hard Strain On Pitcher

—SAYS WALTER JOHNSON

HAT type of delivery places the greatest strain on the pitcher's arm?

The curve ball is the toughest ball for the pitcher. It is unquestionably the hardest of all types, unless it is the spitball.

I never used the spitball to any great extent. One year when every pitcher was using it, I learned how to throw it. I did so simply to keep up with the times, rather than the thought of using it.

Occasionally in a pinch with two strikes on the batter, I would throw him a spitball. His great surprise, more than any deceptive break I got on the ball, made it rather effective.

One season I threw perhaps fifty spitballs all year, so I am not competent to speak on just what effect its constant use has on the arm. However, the fact that most spitball pitchers have had a short career, makes it seem that it is a hard delivery on the arm.

Since the spitball is now passe, only a few pitchers being permitted to use it, a comparison between the two is of no particular moment.

I do know that the curve is very trying on the arm from my own experience. In the days when I used a fast ball almost entirely, I would finish a game almost as fresh as I started.

Later, in games in which I frequently used a curve, my arm would feel as if it was dead, and I would be as tired as some fellow who had been using a pick and shovel all day.

A catcher can be of great assistance to a pitcher in his selection of stuff. Some catchers seem to think every delivery should be a curve. A pitcher hates to be constantly disagreeing with his receiver, and very often pitches contrary to his desire.

When "Gabby" Street was catching me, it was easy going. He was very complimentary to me and would always say:

"Why use a curve, Walter, when they can't see your fast one?"

Tomorrow Johnson tells what it means to the pitcher who is breaking a record.

White And Jackson Meet Tonight

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—Charlie White, lightweight pugilist of Chicago, and Willie Jackson will meet in Madison Square Garden tonight in a 15-round bout under American Legion direction.

Both aspire to the lightweight title, held by Benny Leonard. Benny is under contract to meet the winner of the bout in a championship contest.

White floored Leonard once during a bout in Benton Harbor, Mich., in 1920. But Benny, tired of being teased with Charlie's left, came back and sent Charles away for the count in the ninth round.

Catlettsburg Beaten

The Catlettsburg high school five lost to the Ceredo-Kenova hi school quintet Saturday night by a score of 28 to 6.

Charlie Pilson, who fought Fletcher Pace at one of the boxing shows at the Sun theatre, hereby flings a challenge at George Alexander or Kid Fox for bouts at 116 pounds. He would like to be matched for the next Battery B show March 3. Pilson is ready to go any number of rounds. He says this challenge may be accepted through the daily papers.

Prominent Attorney Killed On C. & O.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., February 20.—Laban T. Everett, 65, for many years a prominent attorney at the bar of Boyd county, Kentucky, was instantly killed when struck by a Chesapeake & Ohio freight train at a crossing near his home in Catlettsburg, Sunday night about nine o'clock.

There were no eye-witnesses to the accident, but relatives advanced two theories as the cause of the tragedy. It was raining at the time and it is thought that he may have had his umbrella held low over his head and failed to hear or see the train. Another theory was advanced that, being a sufferer from rheumatism, he may have stumbled and fallen in front of the train.

Judge Everett was born in Guyandotte in 1857. While still a boy he went to live with Colonel Moore, at Catlettsburg, and early began the study of law. He was one of the most prominent and respected members of the Boyd County Bar Association and at one time was president of the Boyd county court.

He is survived by two brothers, G. S. Everett and Clay Everett, of Guyandotte, and two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Engle, of Fairmont, and Mrs. Taylor, of Philadelphia.

Attorney Everett was better known as Colonel Everett. He is a distant relative of Mrs. A. A. Wilson, of 1637 Highland avenue, this city. He also has many friends here who will be shocked to learn of his tragic death.

Mrs. Wilson when told of the death today could hardly believe it true for she had visited over the week-end with relatives in Ashland and had talked to Colonel Everett as late as Sunday afternoon.

To Limit Exports Of Sugar

HAVANA, CUBA, February 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Cuba will not reduce artificially this year's sugar crop, but will agree to limitation of exports to the United States, it was announced today by Jose M. Cortina, secretary of the presidency, and chief of the cabinet, speaking for his government.

Still Found; Owner Fined

J. R. Belcher was handed fines of $200 and costs on each count of two separate charges of violating the liquor laws by Judge McCall in Municipal court Monday afternoon after the defendant admitted guilt.

Belcher was taken into custody early Sunday morning after officers raided his home, Seventh and Adams streets, and found a small still together with a half gallon of "hootch" and 150 gallons of mash. Constable W. H. Castor of New Boston, and Officers Startzman, Flowers and Downs composed the raiding party.

Founding Of Church Celebrated

The one hundred and forty-first anniversary of the birth of Richard Allen the founder of the A. M. E. church was fittingly celebrated yesterday at the Allen M. E. church.

Special music was rendered at the evening service by the Junior choir under the supervision of the efficient organist and choir director, Mrs. Mattie Price White. Mrs. Frank Jackson read an interesting and instructive paper on the "Heritage of the Negro." Other papers were also read by various members. Dorothy Putnam gave a recitation "How You Can Best Serve in Your Place," which was a treat to the audience. Mrs. L. E. White who recently attended the Bishop's conference in Montgomery, Ala., brought back echoes of her trip, which were a treat to the audience. The address by Attorney Taylor was very instructive and furnished food for thought. The Musical numbers were especially beautiful, and very much enjoyed by the large audience. Mrs. Mattie Price White was at her best. In a duet, "It is Jesus," Mrs. White sang soprano while Miss Laura Belle Rowe sang alto. Besides the anthem a quartet sang "Steal Away to Jesus." They were Bishop Thomas, Roosevelt, Mary C. Daniels and Laura Bell Rowe. Those who sang the solo parts in the anthem were Bishop Thomas, Teddy Price and Virginia White.

Says Levernier Was Aggressor

William Vankirk, 28, the young man who was arrested by the police for engaging in a fight with Charles "Frenchy" Levernier shortly before the latter's death late Saturday night, was before Judge McCall in Municipal court Monday afternoon to meet charges of intoxication and disorderly conduct.

Vankirk admitted he had taken a drink or two before the trouble, which occurred at the Diener soft drink restaurant but denied that he was drunk.

He declared that Levernier was drunk and that the latter was an aggressor throughout the trouble, the accused claiming that he made no effort to defend himself until after "Frenchy" had knocked him down and then hit him in the head with a pop bottle.

Judge McCall desired additional evidence and the hearing was continued until eye-witnesses to the fight can be brought into court.

Vankirk says he did not see the trouble Levernier had with Officers Powers and Cox.

A CASE OF COLD FEET

SEVERAL years ago a new, cheap, and highly efficient burglar alarm for use in private residences was invented, patented, put on the market and advertised in a small way for a brief period. After a few months the advertising ceased.

Recently the purchaser of a new house desiring to protect himself against the depredations of thieves, bethought him of the aforementioned device, of which he had a lingering memory, and visited nearly a dozen hardware stores in search of it. Every dealer knew that there had been such a thing on the market but none could recall the name of the maker or tell where it could be obtained. In a small shop the intending purchaser finally found a dealer who was confident he had the thing in stock; but he said the demand for it was so dead that he had put it away somewhere, and couldn't lay hands on it at once. He promised to hunt it up, however, and a few hours later he delivered the order at the purchaser's home.

The article in question is, as we have said, efficient, and is susceptible of a wide variety of uses. It is dead for lack of advertising. Why the maker gave up after a feeble effort at publicity we do not know; but we suspect that he lacked the faith and perseverance that must back the introduction of every brand-new idea.

Perseverance in advertising is not necessarily costly. A very small appropriation will keep a modest enterprise before the public for a whole year if small space in good newspapers is used.

The successful advertisers are those who proportion their investment to the requirements of their business, and keep everlastingly at it.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, February 20.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up and like a colt bounced around the park on a horse almost breaking my foolish neck. But the air fyne and Lord! how prettily the ladies ride. Much talk of the influenza plague again and everybody in great fear.

On my way home I bethought myself to buy a bauble against my wife's birthday and meeting Mr. Rothaker walked to his building and talked of the Hollywood affair, both believing it hath done the photo drama immeasurable hurt.

Home where many people, all mighty merry, yet the pleasure not worth the cost to me, having had prepared much victuals and a quarter of a tierce of grape juice. My head full of business but no work done for these two days.

At night in a public benzine waggon to Mistress Hattie Bell's home for dinner where came K. Kitchen, the scrivener, and his new bride, a comely lady, and afterward to the play which I could not watch for gazing at young Lord and Lady Astor in a stall and wishing I might possess his riches. So home and to bed.

Arthur B. Reeves, the novelist, was having some dental work done the other day and the dentist commented upon the fact that while he was working on a tooth never touched before there were flakes of gold on his drill.

"Nothing unusual," groaned Reeves, "you merely bored into my back collar button."

Speaking of dentists there is a building at Fifty-Ninth street and Madison Avenue that has 286 dental offices. "The only person I ever heard moan in this building," the elevator starter told me, "was one of the dentist's with an ear ache."

The new "nothing at all" stockings from Paris have come to Fifth Avenue giving it all the flair of a summer bathing beach. One hosiery shop has a sign in its window reading: "We carry invisible stockings. Our guarantee: 'They cannot be seen!'"

One of the laughs in a current musical play concerns a comedian who goes to the telephone and when Central immediately answers faints. Telephone service in New York is not the best yet the operators have a way of trilling the number three that is an art in itself. The number that is most difficult to understand is nine. It is usually mistaken for five so the operators now pronounce nine "Nioon." The busiest exchange in town is Bryant in the theatrical and hotel district.

The gay road houses near New York did a flourishing business last winter but this year they are closing up one by one unable to stand the stump. Too many places in New York furnishing the same jazz atmosphere and alcoholic drink, say the proprietors. The man who was formerly the hat check king of Broadway opened up a chain of road houses when the cabarets lost their appeal. For a time he did an enormous business, but just now he has found them white elephants.

DOC KOKO'S KOLUM

A Near Visitor

(New York Herald)

Her form may be svelte
And not lacking in grace,
But her chill none can melt,
And quite blank is her face.

She may make things sing
And there's speed in her step,
But you miss in it spring
What is sometimes called pep.

She powders her cheeks,
They are always too white,
And it often takes weeks
To get over her bite.

No one asked her here,
So far as we learn,
But it seems to be clear
That there'll be coal to burn.

So shake down the stove
And wrap up the ears,
There'll be doings, by Jove,
When Miss Zero appears!

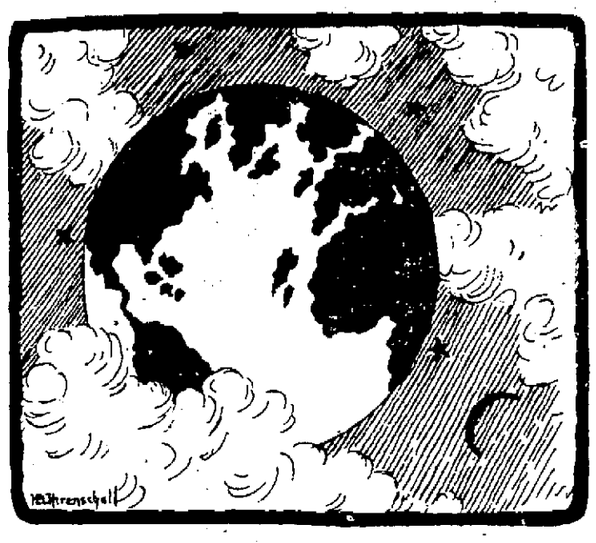
THE BIBLE IN PICTURES AND TEXT

By HELEN E. OHRENSCHALL



THE CREATION

IN THE beginning God made heaven and earth. God sadi "Let there be light" and there was light. In six days God made the sky and called it heaven, and divided the waters from the dry land, caused herbs and trees to spring up upon the earth, set the sun, moon and stars in the heaven, made the fish in the water and the birds in the air and the beasts, cattle and all creeping things. When all was completed God made the first man and woman—Adam and Eve—and put them in a beautiful garden called Eden.

No Uncommon Name

He is a close little neighbor of the West Indianapolis branch library and diligently practiced writing his name in order to make out a card. The day he brought his application all signed to the desk was a proud one for him. The librarian found just one flaw. His father's name was not written in full.

"What is your father's first name?" she asked.

The triumphant smile faded. "I don't know," he said thoughtfully.

"You don't know what C stands for?" the librarian questioned.

"No."

"What does your mother call him?" she continued.

The confident smile returned. "She calls him 'hon'," he replied promptly.

Ulterior Golf

There once was a golfer named Sutter,
Who always drove off with his putter.
He said: "I must say
It's a very poor way.
But I like to hear all the folks sputter."

As She Saw It

"She says she never goes through her husband's pockets."

"Dear me! What a nonsense of honor!"

—From Judge.

The Conference Ended

"I'm waiting for my wife," said the bold, bad man to an attractive young woman he met in a department store.

"Yes?"

"Are you shopping?"

"No."

"Have you any particular place to go just now?"

"No."

"Couldn't we—er—become better acquainted?"

"We could, but I don't think it will be necessary if you behave yourself. I'm the store detective."

Moon, Moon, Moon

An exchange says: "A man in Michigan by the name of Moon got married and that was a change in the moon. In due time his wife presented him with a daughter, and that was a new moon; then he went out in town and tanked up on "moon" for joy, and that was a full moon; when he started for home he had 25 cents in his pocket, that was his last quarter; his mother-in-law met him at the door with a rolling pin and that was a total eclipse—he saw stars."—Ex.

Letters From Our Readers

Portsmouth, O., Feb. 17, 1920
Editor Portsmouth Times,
Portsmouth, Ohio.
Dear Sir:

We are very much in favor of law enforcement in our city and take it for granted that all loyal citizens feel the need of laws being obeyed.

We read in the "Times" in bold black type something like this: "Federal Officers in City," most every time they have occasion to be here. The blame for this is not being placed at your door, but feel that it is done by some reporter and we as a body of women that for years have worked for prohibition and now the enforcement of law, ask you that you will if possible see to it that reference is not made to these officers until after they have accomplished their work.

Your for the best interests of the city.

The West Portsmouth Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Editorial Note—As far as we know no publication of the presence of federal prohibition officers in the city has been made by the Times in a way to interfere with their activities. The Times always work in harmony with the officers of the law, as can easily be ascertained, and the usual rule is that the publication of the presence of federal officials in the city is made only after they have completed their investigation and 'o. k publication. The Times may have known of their presence for some time, but refrained from publication until the proper time.

COURT HOUSE

Accused of Stealing Clothes

Walter James, 52 years old, negro was arrested Sunday night by Deputy Sheriff Bennett and lodged in the county jail on a warrant issued from Municipal court which accuses him of larceny in connection with the theft of a suit of clothes valued at $70, belonging to Charley Johnson also colored. It is claimed the clothes were stolen on Feb. 13, from an N. & W. camp car at Wheelersburg where both men lodge, being employed as laborers with a railroad construction gang.

Trio Deny Guilt

Shirley and Bert Hardin, of this city, and Andy McRoberts, of South Webster, trio of young men arrested Saturday night by county officers for larceny in connection with the alleged theft of meat from the smokehouse of John Montgomery, Turkey Creek farmer, denied guilt when brought before Squire Morgan Monday and they were held for trial in default of bond.

Shirley Hardin, who is a son-in-law of Montgomery admitted taking the meat, according to the officers, but claimed that Montgomery owed him $18 for work and had agreed to pay him in liquor and meat.

Basham-Gambill Case On Trial

The case of James G. Basham, Scioto ville real estate agent, against M. F. Gambill, Morgan township farmer, came to trial before Judge Thomas and a jury in Common Pleas court Tuesday morning but the case will probably not be heard as court officials have been advised that the defendant has skipped town. Before leaving, it is said, the dashing Goldie disposed of her property on Union street, where it is alleged she conducted a resort for several months, and used the proceeds to buy a new automobile in which she took her departure.

Branam Faces Serious Charges

Colbert Branam, 45 years old, farmer living on the Waddell farm at Junior Furnace, Green township, was taken into custody by Deputy Sheriff Frank Bennet Sunday and brought to the county jail where he is held to meet a complaint in Municipal court charging him with shooting at with intent to wound his daughter, Sarah Branam.

Branam will also probably be required to meet more serious charges as the result of the shocking stories which the officers claim were told to him by the prisoner's two daughters in connection with the father's misconduct towards them.

The defendant is a native of Kentucky and is regarded as a bad man by the officers. He was armed with two revolvers when taken into custody and the officers claim he has served two terms in the Kentucky penitentiary.

Collision Leads To Arrest

A collision between automobiles which occurred in front of the Emery Evans home, West Side, Sunday night led to the arrest of Spencer Borden, proprietor of the Star livery stable on Third street, by Deputy Sheriffs Bennet and Richards for operating his car while intoxicated and for possessing liquor unlawfully.

Borden on being brought to the county jail was given a hearing before Squire Morgan and was fined $25 and costs under his plea of guilty to driving while intoxicated but denied guilt of possessing liquor. He was released on bond pending trial.

An investigation made by the officers disclosed that Borden was accompanied to the West Side by two women and, a man who became alarmed for their safety when Borden's machine dashed into a ditch at the roadside and abandoned him. On the way back Borden ran his machine into the Ford touring car belonging to a young man named Cappett of Turkey Creek, and in the crash the Ford was considerably damaged.
